Task 1. Read the text and answer the questions.

Many British schools have school uniforms. Some people think this is a good idea because you do not wear out your own clothes. Then some families don't have much money and some families are rich. If pupils wear uniforms, you cannot say anything about their family budget. Uniforms also help you to save time. You don't have to think what clothes to put on in the mornings!

But school uniforms don't often look fashionable and they are not always comfortable. Some people are against school uniforms. They think there should be no school uniform at all and pupils should wear whatever they like. They are sure that pupils will soon learn which clothes are good for school and which are not. They say that everybody has to form their own individual dress sense.
